THE TICKLED TROUT LOVES WINE

We are committed to keep evolving as a restaurant and as a result we are always on the lookout for new and exciting wines to share with you. Old world or new world, young or old, established, or unusual – if it's delicious it's in our list!

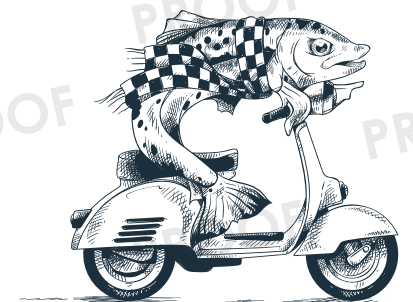

We believe that wine should be an experience and we're delighted to be able to offer you some of our favourite fine wines by the glass through our state of the art Coravin system. Not sure what to try? No problem, we can recommend the perfect wine to go with each course on the menu. Whenever we taste a new wine for the list, we always try and match it to one of the current dishes on our menu; a pairing between food and wine can make the whole dining experience even better.

Our passion for wine is driven by our desire to travel and experience some of these regions and countries, which has enabled us to meet some great producers in person. So much so that I've even brought some of my favourite wines back from my travels to share with you, such as the Marco Cuscito sparkling wines from Italy and the stunning pair of still wines from Grande Mayne in Côtes de Duras.

In our recent wine list update, we introduced a few new wines that I think will blow your socks off. My personal favourites are a Spanish duo from Orube – the Rioja Blanco is elegant and aromatic with complexity from six months of barrel ageing. The Rioja Tinto is made from 100% Garnacha grapes offering something unique to what one normally expects from a Riojan red.

Enjoy!

CIDER

Somerset is apple country, with the perfect soil and climate for growing apples and making cyder. It has been going on here for centuries. Head out to the small farmlands of Somerset and you'll spot ancient orchards still dotted about; clumps of mistletoe in the canopy, sheep grazing under the dappled shade of laden trees. Old barns still with the farmer's cyder press within, some still making cyder today. At The Newt, they celebrate every aspect of their county's signature crop; from the sapling to the tree, the fruit, its juice and the final stage: cyder.

Around the time Hadspen House was built, the finest quality cyders were preferred to Champagne by sniffy Somerset gentry who knew their tippie. People in our apple-growing regions consumed over a pint a day; at the time, this mildly alcoholic drink was safer than water. Everyone, including children, drank it – even at breakfast! Records show that the secondary fermentation process being used at this time - in glass bottles, sealed with corks - came well before French monk Dom Pierre Pérignon supposedly invented Champagne.

THE NEWT FINE WHITE CIDER 8.1% (BOTTLE)

£29.95

Made with specially selected dessert apples using precise wine-making techniques and slowly cold fermented in their cellar. The result is a super-fresh elegant, still cyder; you can expect ripe pear, melon and almond on the nose, with a crisp taste of apple and lemon.

THE NEWT ICE CIDER 8.2% (375ML BOTTLE)

£35.00

It's cyder, but not as you know it. Just in from Greg and the team in the Cyder Cellar is a rich and super sweet Ice Cyder, perfect with pudding or a wedge of Westcombe cheddar. It's comparable to a fine dessert wine, with a lovely fresh note of citrus on the nose and palate.

Originating from Canada, Ice Cyder is made by pressing apples while they are still frozen. The water from the apples turns to ice and is separated, leaving only the intense, syrup-like juice behind.

Having been inspired by this technique, the team have recreated the same freezing conditions on the estate by storing their freshly pressed apple juice at -25°C for a minimum of five weeks. The sweet, naturally concentrated syrup is then cold fermented in their cellar and aged in steel tanks for a further six months, before it's bottled and ready to drink.

THE NEWT WINSTON 2018 (568ML BOTTLE)

"An imperial pint is an ideal size for a man like me. It's enough for two at lunch and one at dinner. It pleases everyone, even the producer"; – so says the distinguished British Prime Minister who inspired The Winston, the first sparkling cyder in the world to be bottled as an imperial pint. The apples that went into the making of this special sip were picked and pressed in 2018, before being fermented in our cellar by Head Cyder Maker Paul Ross, and laid down in bottle for two years. The result? A vibrant cyder with a pale straw colour and fine mousse. Candy, brioche and custard apple on the nose, with lychee, mango and crisp apple to taste.

THE NEWT APPLE GIN 40%

This small-batch apple gin distilled in Somerset makes for a refreshing garden drink. It's crafted with apple juice straight from the press and flavoured with botanicals from their gardens.

Pairs perfectly with our Rosemary & Mint Tonic for a refreshing, herbaceous drink with natural flavours of rosemary, mint and yuzu. and good length.
